FAQ for Associate of Science in Radiography:

Is Allen College’s Associate of Science in Radiograph (ASR) Program accredited?

Allen College is an institution regionally accredited by the Higher Learning Commission. Allen College’s ASR program is nationally accredited by the Joint Review committee on Education in Radiologic Technology http://www.jrcert.org/. More information about Allen College accreditation can be obtained by viewing the Allen College Accreditation Web page.

What is the average salary for a radiographer?

www.asrt.org

What is the employment outlook for those interested in the radiography profession?

The Bureau of Labor Statistics provides information on the radiography profession:

What is the job placement percentage of the Allen College ASR program?

Allen College’s ASR Program conducts annual graduate surveys to obtain job placement information. The most recent job placement information indicated 100% of the 2012 responding graduates.

What is the first attempt pass rate for the ARRT Board of Certification exam among Allen College ARRT graduates?

The first attempt pass rate for those taking the exam in 2012 was 100% (16 of 16). ARRT credentialing examinations pass rate on the graduates 1st attempt for past years:

2011- 94%
2010- 100%
2009- 100%
2008- 100%
2007- 100%
2006- 100%
How do I find out more information about the radiography profession?

Radiology is a science combining advanced technology and human compassion. Radiographers use their knowledge of science, human anatomy and physiology to create medical images. Allen College’s ASR program focuses on developing the skills and competencies essential for an entry-level radiographer. More information on the radiography profession can be found at:

www.asrt.org    www.jrcert.org

How much does the program cost/what financial aid is available?

The final out-of-pocket cost to attend Allen College’s ASR program will vary by student. Financial aid is based upon each student’s financial aid profile. Scholarships are available. More information can be found at the Allen College Tuition and Fees Web page.

Who can I contact for more information about Allen College?

Students interested in attending Allen College may contact Andrea Schupbach in the Student Services Recruiting office at Admissions@AllenCollege.edu or at 319-226-2014. Students with specific questions about the ASR program may contact Dr. Fortsch, Dean, School of Health Sciences at Peggy.Fortsch@AllenCollege.edu or 319-226-2031.