Lee Nauss and Maria Rosenau met as students in the Allen Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. In fact, Lee was the first male student and graduate of the school, and he still spins tales about the many new rules that were put into place because of his presence on campus. After graduation, Lee and Maria were married. Maria went on to work in nursing as Lee continued school and pursued a career as an anesthesiologist. Dr. Lee Nauss practiced most of his years as a physician at Mayo Clinic.

Now retired, Dr. Nauss enjoys flying and has a special place in his heart for Alaska. While at home, Maria Nauss enjoyed working in her greenhouse.

Maria Rosenau Nauss passed away while she and her husband were in the process of establishing this scholarship. It stands to honor and aid those committed to pursuing a career in the noble field of nursing.
