

Farm Show Blood Pressure Checks

Students from AC 315 Learning and Serving had the opportunity to take blood pressures at the Farm Show in February. Students took 200 pressures on Farm Show attendees in the UNI-DOME this year. Allen College has worked collaboratively with Iowa State Extension for the past few years to provide this free service to the Farm Show population. Students enjoy the opportunity to visit with the attendees and take their blood pressure. The students in these photos are Bailey Burchette and Rachel Schmit.
